Marine Life Park launches dolphin interaction programmes on 30 September 2013

10 underprivileged children first to meet Indo-Pacific bottlenose dolphins

SINGAPORE, 18 SEPTEMBER 2013 – Resounding cheers and gleaming smiles abound at the Marine Life Park today as 10 children were welcomed as the first guests of its dolphin interaction programme.

These children, aged between 8 and 12 years old, enjoyed an up-close experience with the park's Indo-pacific bottlenose dolphins as part of a special preview for underprivileged children from The Little Arts Academy (小小艺术学院).

Donning wet suits and enthusiastic attitudes, these children waded in waist-deep waters to meet dolphins for the very first time. In the Dolphin Discovery programme, the children got to interact with the inquisitive marine mammal, and learnt about physiological aspects of the dolphins, their diet, and other fun facts under the guidance of our friendly and professional trainers.

Richelle Ho, 11, a student from The Little Arts Academy, said: "This was an unforgettable experience. I never imagined myself coming so close to a dolphin. Hui Hui was very friendly and Eliza taught me so much about them. It was so much fun and I want to do this again!"

Ms. Aminah Hussien, Centre Director for The Little Arts Academy added, "This session provided a great learning opportunity for the children, and they enjoyed themselves. We are glad that they got this opportunity to meet these fascinating animals at close proximity, without having to travel beyond our shores."

Mr. Roger Lienhard, Senior Vice President of Attractions at Resorts World Sentosa said, "The experience is designed to inspire guests to appreciate our oceans, and do their part for marine conservation. Our animal ambassadors will continue to provide excellent education opportunities for the thousands of students who pass through our doors at Marine Life Park."

Dolphin Island's interaction programmes are the latest marine encounters offered at the Marine Life Park. Dolphin Discovery, where participants meet dolphins in waist-deep waters, will open to guests on 30 September 2013. Accompanying friends and family choosing to stay dry can opt for Dolphin Observer, with lagoon-side seating. Non-swimmers will not be left out either in Dolphin Trek, as they descend four metres into the lagoon, walking among dolphins.

For even more up-close interactions swimming alongside the dolphins, Dolphin Adventure will start before the end of this year, taking guests to the depths of the lagoons.

Outside of Dolphin Island, guests can see these charming dolphins from various vantage points. These include the Grotto and while journeying along the Adventure River at Adventure Cove Waterpark, as well as through the viewing panels at S.E.A. Aquarium.

Since the dolphins' arrival in November last year, trainers at the Marine Life Park have provided the best care for these animals. Our specialists have also been tracking daily information gathered from the dolphins' social behaviours, food intake as well as an array of animal health examinations. These data will aid in future education, conservation and research projects.

Dr. Alfonso Lopez, Chief Veterinarian of Marine Life Park said, "At Marine Life Park, the well-being of all our animals is our utmost priority. Our dolphins have adapted well to their habitat under the care of our dedicated animal health team. The trainers also vary their routine constantly while ensuring that our animals have enough exercise, mental stimulation, enrichment activities as well as social time with the trainers and with each other."

More information on the dolphin interaction programmes are appended in Annex A.
