1. Indocin x Century Bakkwa

Indocin and Century Bakkwa are helmed by 30 year old Chef and serial-entrepreneur Simbian Chua who gave a 33 year old heritage bakkwa recipe new life under the mentorship of a bakkwa maestro who has been selling charcoal grilled handmade bakkwa since 1988. Century Bakkwa has just opened its first flagship store on Dunlop Street. She has made waves with her Bakkwa Croffles and will be releasing exclusive Bakkwa Boy and Girl treats at Universal Studios Singapore's Festive Market.

Indocin was born out of her irresistible craving for authentic Indonesian fare amidst COVID-19 pandemic. Her sell-out meals take guests on a gastronomic trip to Singaporean's favourite short getaway - Indonesia.

With big portions and affordable prices, Indocin's hearty handmade and homemade meals made fresh daily without added preservatives are sure to leave guests feeling full and satisfied. Do not miss trying out the Hae Bee Hiam and Truffle flavours of their Bak Mie which come in aesthetically pleasing Christmas latte cups that will fit perfectly with Instagram feeds this festive season.

2. Restaurant Salt

As part of the S Collective brand, Restaurant Salt is founded and owned by Shermaine Khoo who used to run the famed Kream & Kensho cafe. The restaurant is an experimental project that was created from a casual dine-in concept and now operates as a cloud kitchen. Salt aims to offer customers a contemporary dining experience rather than just simply presenting a dish itself.

With that in mind, the team experiments and works with various flavour profiles before incorporating them into their range of pastries and food offerings. Sometimes they can get a little playful with their menu items, so watch out for seasonal flavors like their Universal Studios Singapore exclusive Dashi-based Mee Sua and Chicken Katsu that are only offered for a limited period of time!

Signature Garlic Cream Cheese Bun 	Fluffy, garlicky, comforting potato buns that are just to die for. For those craving for something trufflicious, choose to have them stuffed with a creamy and luscious truffle cream cheese filling, dipped in their signature in-house garlic butter sauce. Alternatively, opt for their mozzarella cheese filling, dipped in their famous garlic butter sauce and drizzled with a touch of honey. This is a cheese pull simply cannot be missed!

Guests can cleanse their palate with artisanal cold brew coffee and tea, packaged beautifully in aesthetically pleasing bottles.

Guests can get in the holiday mood and try their limited edition Christmas flavours: Peppermint Mocha and Iced Chocolate, topped with torched marshmallows for the perfect sweet treat!

3. Le Matin Patisserie

Le Matin Patisserie is helmed by Singaporean chef Mohamed Al-Matin, trained at Le Cordon Bleu in Sydney. Le Matin Patisserie specialises in French pastry freshly baked each morning. The brand prides itself in elevating the pastry scene in Singapore by serving premium pastries with innovative flavours that have global and modern influences.

One of his signature items includes Amazake Soft Serve made with a unique Sourdough Croissant Cone which has been specially created and is only available at the Universal Studios Singapore Festive Market. Don't forget to pair this delicacy with a refreshing bottle of coffee brewed by Barista Shan.

Croissant Amazake Soft Serve

Amazake is traditionally made by fermenting rice with koji overnight. For this soft serve, the same has been done using croissants instead of rice to produce a decadent yet tangy ice cream.

This Universal Studios Singapore Festive Market exclusive Sourdough Croissant Cone is layered with the Croissant Amazake Soft Serve, topped with croissant chips and flakes, then finished with a sprinkle of roasted koji and malt. Pure bliss!

Black Forest Danish

Giving a unique twist to our favourite black forest cake, Le Matin Patisserie gives guests the indulgent Black Forest Danish that has just the right amount of cherry sweetness and chocolate decadence!

Kouign Amann

Our favourite shades of brown have got to come from Le Matin Patisserie's signature Kouign Amanns! With a crispy, caramelised exterior and a fluffy, buttery center, these flavourful pastries are sure to be a crowd's favourite.

Pumpkin Pie

Baked Pumpkin Pie loaded with dates and mulberries, served with a dollop of creme fraiche and gingerbread. A must-have, as it tastes just as good as it sounds.

Beverages

Roasted and brewed to perfection by in-house baristas, Le Matin Patisserie's bottled brews come in three coffee options: Black, White and Oat, and Chocolate for non-caffeine drinkers.

Don't forget to try their holiday-exclusive Christmas Tea!

4. CocoBoss

The newest addition to these blends is the exclusive Popcorn Fiesta that has been specially crafted for the Universal Studios Singapore Festive Market, which combines the sweet taste of coconut with the salty buttery goodness of our favourite popcorn snacks. Go crazy, or in what CocoBoss likes to say, go coco-nuts!

Assorted Coconut Shakes

Cool off and hydrate with local favourite coconut shakes! Make a selection from an array of flavours including Matcha, Hazelnut, Cold Brew, and Cookies & Cream, just to name a few.

Ask CocoBoss for a surprise and they will pick a staff favourite especially for guests. Do inform them of any preferences or allergies and they will be sure to work around them.

Popcorn Fiesta

Launching for the first time at Universal Studios Singapore's Festive Market, CocoBoss unveils their most experimental drink yet - the Popcorn Fiesta!
