Discover Singapore's native marine life at S.E.A. Aquarium

This August, S.E.A. Aquarium is offering special ticket deals for visitors to get up close to some of Singapore's amazing native marine life.

As Singaporeans celebrate National Day in red and white, they can try to spot red, white and even star-shaped native marine life in S.E.A. Aquarium's habitats. Russell's Lionfish, with its white and reddish-brown stripes and venomous spines, resides at the Sea Urchin Habitat, while the Knobbly Sea Star, also known as the Chocolate Chip Sea Star, can be found in the Discovery Pool.

At S.E.A. Aquarium's stunning centerpiece attraction, the Open Ocean Habitat which is home to the Giant Trevally, Golden Trevally and Spotted Eagle Ray, visitors can enjoy watching the large fishes swim and glide gracefully.

Visitors can also marvel at the Brain Coral and Scroll Coral at the aquarium's Underwater City Zone which demonstrate this year's National Day theme of "Stronger Together, Majulah!". Hard corals such as these form the foundation of a flourishing coral reef ecosystem, supporting communities of fishes and marine life.

From 6 to 30 August, adult and child admission tickets come with a S$8 meal voucher that can be used at S.E.A. Aquarium or Malaysian Food Street and a S$8 S.E.A. Aquarium retail voucher. Find out more about the local aquatic wildlife in S.E.A. Aquarium's care at www.rwsentosa.com/nationalday.
