Chef Daisuke Mori of Michelin-starred Restaurant Takumi in Hong Kong presents French-Japanese haute cuisine at Art at CURATE

An inspiring collaboration between two exciting young culinary talents, Chef Daisuke Mori and Chef Benjamin Halat, at CURATE, RWS from 16 to 22 August 2019

SINGAPORE, 5 July 2019 – Resorts World Sentosa (RWS) welcomes 37-year-old Chef Daisuke Mori of Michelin-starred Takumi by Daisuke Mori in Hong Kong who will collaborate with CURATE restaurant’s Resident Chef Benjamin Halat in presenting exciting four hands lunch and dinner menus from 16 to 22 August 2019 featuring French haute cuisine employing exquisite Japanese ingredients. This is the 15th instalment of the successful quarterly Art at CURATE dining series which continue its year-round showcase of Michelin-starred French-Japanese cuisine.

Chef Daisuke Mori’s cuisine offers much to look forward to. His French training was honed at Three Michelin-starred Chateau Restaurant Joel Robuchon in Tokyo; the world-renowned Two Michelin-starred Restaurant Taillevent in Paris; and One Michelin star Restaurant Signature at the Mandarin Oriental Tokyo. At Takumi by Daisuke Mori, he fuses classical French techniques with an understanding of seasonality and quality inherent in Japanese gastronomy. Since he took over the helm of the restaurant in 2016, his talents have won over the region’s most strident restaurant critics. South China Morning Post wrote that “Takumi by Daisuke Mori provides a masterclass in subtlety and restraint” and “it was fascinating to watch...Chef Daisuke Mori and his assistants as they work... given that every stage of each dish required clinical attention to detail”.

Chef Daisuke Mori said, “I have worked in many places across the world and that really opened my eyes, making me willing to experiment with different ingredients and cooking styles. At Takumi, we are solely focused on fusing Japanese simplicity with French aplomb, while using only the finest produce both countries have to offer. Most importantly, I cook food that I like to eat, I think this is the best way to reflect my culinary philosophy.”

Chef Mori will be presenting a selection of his unique seasonal creations at Art at CURATE. Dishes including Hokkaido Sea Urchin and Botan Ebi with Lily Root; Kinmedai in Shiitake Consommé; and Blue Lobster with Topinambour, Barigoule and Jus Citronnelle will be delivered with his signature flair. He will also be dishing up his visually stunning Épeautre Risotto with Japanese Calmar – a recent creation from his collaboration with a Polish artist. The black risotto with Japanese squid belies its complexity and dramatic flavour.

Complementing Chef Mori’s French-Japanese cuisine, Chef Benjamin Halat will be crafting inspired dishes with an intriguing mix of German and Japanese elements such as the Sauerkraut Consommé with Black Forest Miso.
